MISCELLANEOUS APPROVALS

I. COURSE CHANGES

ANTH 285 Change the course number to ANTH 625.

ANTH 413 Revise course description to restore old ANTH 113A description. Description will change from “Prerequisite, any course in archaeology or permission of the instructor” to read, “Required preparation, any course in archaeology or permission of the instructor. A general survey of the laboratory techniques used to study and draw social and behavioral inferences from plant remains recovered from archaeological sites.”

ANTH 540 Department submitted a revision request to renumber ANTH 499 to 540. However, they intended to keep ANTH 499 in the course inventory. The ANTH 499 transaction was rejected. This transaction is requesting to add ANTH 540 to the inventory. The Curriculum Committee has already approved the course (under the number 499).

BUSI 603 Change description from “This course is designed to introduce undergraduate students to the finance and economics of real estate development. The course will survey the physical products of real estate, its financial attributes, and the process by which a program of development is implemented. To this end, the course will incorporate site visits to local real estate projects. Students will be introduced to development decision-making, and we will cover the fundamentals of market analysis, the valuation of real estate, and of creating a capital budget for development. In addition, various contracts and processes, like permitting, will be explored” to “This course is designed to introduce undergraduate students to the finance and economics of real estate development. The course will survey the physical products of real estate, its financial attributes, and the process by which a program of development is implemented. Includes site visits to local real estate projects.” Description exceeds the 50-word maximum.

CHEM 073 Change course description from “This course will approach the topic of nuclear chemistry on the level of an introductory chemistry class (e.g. Chem 101/102)” to “A course engaging the topic of nuclear chemistry on the introductory chemistry course level (e.g., CHEM 101/102). Atomic structure, nuclear fission, and nuclear fusion processes will be introduced to provide the background necessary to understand applications of the processes. Applications discussed will include power generation, medical treatments, weapons, and more”

CHEM 102 Change course description from “The course is the second member of a two-semester sequence. See also CHEM 101. Chemical equilibrium, reaction rates, representative chemical structures and reactions” to “C- or better required in CHEM 101. The course is the second in a two-semester sequence. See also CHEM 101. Gases, intermolecular forces, solutions, reaction rates, chemical equilibria, including acid-base chemistry, thermochemistry, electrochemistry.”

CHEM 245L Change course description from “Applications of separation and spectrophotometric techniques to organic compounds, including some of biological interest. Honors equivalent of CHEM 241L. One three-hour laboratory a week” to “Applications of separation and spectrophotometric techniques to samples from the real world, including some of biological interest. Final portion of course consists of group research projects presented to the Department of Chemistry in poster session format. Honors equivalent of CHEM 241L. One three-hour laboratory each week.”

CHEM 262L Change course description from “Continuation of CHEM 241L or 245L with particular emphasis on applications of modern analytical spectroscopic techniques and separation and identification of organic unknowns. One three-hour laboratory a week” to read, “Continuation of CHEM 241L or 245L with particular emphasis on organic chemistry synthesis protocols, separation techniques, and compound characterization using modern spectroscopic instrumentation. This course serves as an organic chemistry laboratory for premedical and pre dental students. One three-hour laboratory each week.”

CHEM 263L Change course description from “Permission of the instructor for students lacking CHEM 262H. Continuation of CHEM 245L with particular emphasis on applications of modern analytical spectroscopic techniques and separation and identification of organic unknowns. Honors equivalent of CHEM 262L. One three-hour laboratory a week” to “Permission of the instructor for students lacking CHEM 262H. Continuation of CHEM 245L with particular emphasis on organic chemistry synthesis protocols, separation techniques, and compound characterization using modern spectroscopic instrumentation. An organic chemistry laboratory for premedical and pre dental students. Honors equivalent of CHEM 262L. One three-hour laboratory each week.”

CHEM 481L Change course description from “Experiments in physical chemistry. One three-hour laboratory and a single one-hour lecture a week,” to “Experiments in physical chemistry. Solving thermodynamic and quantum mechanical problems using computer simulations. One three-hour laboratory and a single one-hour lecture each week.”

CLAS 133H Remove the BN, LA, WB designations. Add the CR designation (Foundations).

CMPL 130 Change the title from “Travel, Identity, and Belonging” to “Great Books II.” Change the short title from “Travel & Identity” to “Great Books II.” Change the description from “Introduces students to representative literary and intellectual texts from 1750 to the present and to relevant techniques of literary analysis. Works originally written in foreign languages are studied in translation” to read, “An introduction to some of the major texts of 19th-and 20th century literature, focusing on periods of romanticism, realism, and modernism and with some attention given to parallel developments in the arts and philosophy.”

CMPL 134 Change the course title from “Great Books: Romanticism, Realism, Modernism” to “Travel and Identity.” Change the short title from “Great Books” to “Travel and Identity.” Change course description from “An introduction to some of the major texts of 19th-and 20th-century literature, focusing on periods of romanticism, realism, and modernism and with some attention given to parallel developments in the arts and philosophy” to “Introduces students to representative literary and intellectual texts from 1750 to the present and to relevant techniques of literary analysis. RUSS 425 Topics course; remove the BN designation.

SLAV 198H, Remove the BN, LA designations. Add the CR designation.

STOR 062 Change description from "The theory of probability, which can be used to model the uncertainty and chance that exist in the real world, often leads to surprising conclusions and seeming paradoxes. These occurrences are studied using simple chance experiments and spreadsheet calculations." to "The theory of probability, which can be used to model the uncertainty and chance that exist in the real world, often leads to surprising conclusions and seeming paradoxes. We survey and study these, along with other paradoxes and puzzling situations arising in logic, mathematics, and human behavior."

STOR 072 Change description from "Covers the origin and evolution of operations research from the WWII to its modern use in industry and government" to "Introduces students to the world of genetics and DNA and to the use of computers to organize and understand the complex systems associated with the structure and dynamics of DNA and heredity."

II. CURRICULUM CHANGES

Department of Anthropology: Add ANTH 325 to the courses that may be taken to fulfill the requirements for the minor in medical anthropology.

Department of Asian Studies: Add the following placeholders for Turkish language and culture: TURK 101, 102, 203, 204.

Burch Field Research Seminars: Realign course numbers to match Study Abroad course numbers to enable Burch programs and Study Abroad courses to be listed as different sections of the same course number when both programs are taught on the same continent. Each BFRS course will receive the Experiential Education-Study Abroad General Education designation.

Burch Proposal: Burch Seminar in Peru: Investigating the Origins of the Ancient Moche State. The courses were approved by the Study Abroad Advisory Committee: ANTH 231, ANTH 413, ANTH 453, and a Spanish language program for TREQ credit.

Department of Geology: Rename the concentration in traditional geology as the concentration in earth science.
