RE: Revisions to PWAD major requirements and courses

DATE: October 12, 2017

I am submitting the following changes to the PWAD major for the AY 2018/19 Bulletin (this assumes that the appropriate CRAS actions have been taken by the initiating department).

1. HIST 578 Transatlantic Relations should be cross-listed as PWAD 578 and count in either the Evolution of Warfare or the International Security and Intelligence concentration.

2. PUBA 635 Military Leadership and Public Service Should be cross-listed as PWAD 635 in the Culture of Peace and War concentration. (it is currently in the bulletin as a PWAD class, but is not assigned to a concentration)

3. Add PWAD 363 Ethical Issues in Intelligence and National Security in the International Security and Intelligence concentration.

4. Add PWAD 673 Post-Conflict Security Challenges counting in both International Security and Intelligence and Culture of Peace and War concentrations

5. Add PWAD 364 Post-Conflict and Peacebuilding counting in both International Security and Intelligence and Culture of Peace and War concentrations.

6. Remove Comm 390 from all 3 concentrations (This is a special topics class, and is causing confusion)

7. HIST/PWAD 245 should appear as such in the list of concentrations (currently shows as HIST 245)

8. MEJO 552 Leadership in a Time of Change, should be crosslisted as PWAD 552 counting in the Culture of Peace and War Concentration (pending CRAS approval)

9. PWAD 674 History of Covert Action be listed (pending CRAS approval) under the International Security and Intelligence concentration

10. Remove PWAD 672. (Done in CRAS: deactiving the course)

11. Remove PWAD 487 (Done in CRAS: deactiving the course)

12. PWAD 490 Special Topics should be shown as 1-3 credits (pending CRAS approval)

13. HIST 273 Water, Conflict, and Connection in the Middle East should be crosslisted as PWAD 273 (pending CRAS approval) and count in the Culture of Peace and War concentration

14. PWAD 350 should be renamed to "Introduction to Peace and Security Studies" (pending CRAS approval)

15. POLI/PWAD 444 should be renamed (was excecuted by Poli Sci—not sure what name they settled on)

Peace and war are among the oldest dreams and most difficult challenges of human experience. The curriculum brings together faculty and courses from many disciplines to provide undergraduates with a range of approaches to the fundamental issues of human conflict and national and global security and defense.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the peace, war, and defense program, students should be able to:

- · Express themselves effectively in written and oral communication
- · Use appropriate research methodology
- · Demonstrate knowledge of major concepts, theoretical perspectives, and history of peace and war
- · Think critically and analytically in approaches to the concepts, perspectives, and history of peace and war
- · Demonstrate knowledge of the interrelationships between the various disciplinary approaches to the study of peace and war

Requirements

In addition to the program requirements listed below, students must

- · attain a final cumulative GPA of at least 2.0
- · complete a minimum of 45 academic credit hours earned from UNC-Chapel Hill courses
- · take at least half of their major course requirements (courses and credit hours) at UNC-Chapel Hill
- · earn a minimum of 18 hours of C or better in the major core requirements (some majors require 21 hours).

For more information, please consult the degree requirements section of the catalog (http://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/general-educationcurriculum-degree-requirements/#degreerequirementstext).

<sup>H</sup> Honors version available. An honors course fulfills the same requirements as the nonhonors version of that course. Enrollment and GPA restrictions may apply.

PWAD 396, PWAD 680, PWAD 490, PWAD 690 and PWAD 691H may be applied toward the concentration requirement with the permission of the chair. Students can request that relevant courses not on this list, but offered as first-year seminars, honors seminars, or topics courses in other departments, be used to fulfill major requirements. This requires the approval of the chair.

Special Opportunities in Peace, War, and Defense

Additional information on all of these subjects, including lists of internship possibilities, can be found on the curriculum's Web site.

Honors in Peace, War, and Defense

Majors who earn at least a 3.3 overall grade point average and at least a 3.3 grade point average in the major through their junior year may apply to the chair of the curriculum for permission to enroll in PWAD 691H and PWAD 692H. Students interested in honors must take a research seminar in peace, war, and defense (PWAD 670 or PWAD 680), a seminar in history (HIST 398), or another course that provides background in research design. For students who wish to write an honors thesis in their senior year, a thesis topic should be approved by an appropriate thesis director by the end of the junior year. Students prepare an honors thesis in PWAD 691H and PWAD 692H and defend it orally. PWAD 691H can be used to fulfill the student's chosen concentration requirement; PWAD 692H provides credit hours toward the major but cannot be used to satisfy concentration requirements. Based on faculty evaluations, the baccalaureate degree may be conferred with honors or with highest honors, or merely with course credit.

Departmental Involvement

An undergraduate can participate in the activities and programs of the Triangle Institute for Security Studies at no cost by becoming a Wickersham Scholar. To become a scholar, a student must have a faculty sponsor and a demonstrated interest in international security studies. For more information contact Carolyn Pumphrey at (919) 613-9280 or pumphrey@duke.edu. The curriculum is also now a participating institution in the Intelligence Community: Center for Academic Excellence (http://pwad.unc.edu/ic-cae-information) (IC-CAE).

Experiential Education

Internship courses provide students with the opportunity to earn academic credit while obtaining practical work experience in agencies and organizations clearly related to national and international security. In recent years students have served in these and other agencies: The Central Intelligence Agency, Durham Police Department, Office of Naval Intelligence, Defense Intelligence Agency, Carolina for Kibera, Center for Strategic and International Studies, Peace Action, United States Army Special Operations Command, and many more. Students are limited to one internship for credit, and all internships are limited to three hours of academic credit. Although some routine administrative tasks are required in any professional setting, the expectation is that a majority of the intern's work will be directed toward the substantive mission of the agency and that tasks will be of a nature to justify awarding academic credit. All internships require prior approval, and all must consist of at least eight hours per week and at least 100 hours per semester. Students must sign an internship contract with their agency and faculty supervisors, setting out expectations and course requirements. Interns are required to keep a daily work journal. Once approved for an internship, students enroll in PWAD 393, which is offered on a Pass/Fail basis only and therefore does not count toward the nine courses required for the major. Students wishing credit towards the major derived from their internship work should pursue an independent study with a faculty supervisor either while taking the internship or in the next semester. That independent study should produce a major written product, would be graded normally, and receives credit in the major.

Study Abroad

The curriculum encourages all undergraduates to study abroad either for a summer, a semester, or an entire year. Students should consult the study abroad (http://studyabroad.unc.edu) Web site and visit the Study Abroad Office as early as possible in their course of study to meet with a study abroad advisor. A number of foreign programs contain courses that qualify for major credit. Of particular usefulness is study at the King's College, University of London War Studies Department, the closest analogue to the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense in the Englishspeaking world and a program with a renowned faculty. Students with at least a 3.3 grade point average are eligible to apply to King's College. While supervision arrangements need to be negotiated and agreed with relevant faculty members, students writing honors theses in their senior year may also apply to spend the year at King's College.

Undergraduate Research

Students who qualify are encouraged to experience original research by writing a senior honors thesis described in the honors section above.
